

Yesterday week, Mr. Lee held an inquest at the Wind-Mill Inn, Barnsley, on John Ellis, a child about two years old, who while at dinner fell upon a fork, and the prongs entering his skull occasioned his death. And on the following day an inquest was held at Mirfield on Stephen Midwood, a waterman, whose death was occasioned by a gun, which had hung fire, exploding and lodging its charge in his body. Verdicts accordingly.
