

You can search for more articles at <http://leedsmercury.mirfield-2ndlook.info>

A MAN CHOKED.—On Saturday night last, John Newsome, hawker, of Staincliffe, near Dewsbury, was at the Bull's Head, Mirfield. He had been served with something to drink, and called for some oatcake and meat to be served to him. The refreshment was duly supplied, and he proceeded to eat, but had not taken more than a few mouthfuls when a piece of the oaten bread stuck fast in his throat and choked him. He died in a few minutes, to the great consternation of the people in the house.

You can search for more articles at <http://leedsmercury.mirfield-2ndlook.info>